

144,000: 34 – I Am Images Heal

We create and think in images all the time. After all, the power of imagination is one of our God-given 12 powers, which expresses by way of our third/all-seeing eye and our thalamus that is located just below our cerebrum in the center of our head.

Imagination's corresponding color is crystal clear.

What we see, will be. So, we always must ask ourselves: What kind of images do we create and from what level of consciousness do we create them? Do they come primarily from our conscious mind and personality self, our ego -- I want this and I want that? If so, then we may attract some of what we seek. However, such images and experiences have only a limited amount of power to heal us and others.

Do our images originate primarily from our subconscious mind with its emotional promptings, psychic impressions and soul fantasies? When they do, our dreams and desires may become reality. Although these soul/subconscious images may be helpful, however, they still are not the highest form of healing our mind, body and soul.

To fully utilize the harmonizing power of imagination, we focus on I Am images that originate in, and emanate from, our superconscious mind or Christ Self, the Buddha Nature or Lao-Tzu consciousness within us. Such pictures and promptings flow from our superconscious Self into and through our receptive subconscious on their way to conscious recognition and response. These images totally transform us and heal any disharmony we may have. See it and be it.

What imbalance do you wish to harmonize? Whatever it is, ask Spirit to show you the way to bring about its rebalancing. Seek and you shall see. Your healing prescription may come as an idea, inspiration or image. It may arise during meditation, in a dream, via a vision, or in a moment of inner knowing or clairsentience. See it. Have faith in it. Be it. What you see, will be.

Visualization: Be still. Be still some more. Steadfastly stay in the stillness until your mind becomes quiet and calm, so that it can clearly receive a new I Am image without subconsciously or consciously coloring, denying or distorting it.

Over the last six months, you have perfected this ability to center yourself in I Am consciousness by developing your faith, strength, love, wisdom, will and power faculties. Now you come to the step of imagination. Charles Fillmore said that faith is the perceiving power of the mind linked with the power of imagination to bring I Am perceptions into physical creation.

Perceive the presence of your I Am Self, whose primary point of connection is at your crown chakra, the organ of faith. See the Christ image in your third-eye chakra/screen, in front of your forehead. From the third eye, the image travels to and anchors into the brain at the thalamus in the center of your head. In centered, crystal-clear consciousness, perceive the I Am image. See it. Hold onto it. Flow with it. Precipitate it. What you see in I Am consciousness flows through your subconscious and conscious mind. As above, so below. See it and be healed.
