

144,000: 37 – A Splice of Life

Two years ago, on January 21, 2008, after visiting my brother in New Mexico, I dreamt that I was on Amerindian land 12,000 feet above sea level in the sacred mountains of the southwest near my brother's home. With Amerindian co-workers and other guides, I had drilled a well 12,000 feet deep from which clear, sparkling water emerged that had unique healing properties. I held some in my hands and considered how and with whom I would use it to foster harmony. Interpreting, this indicated that ascended masters in the etheric (Christ) planes, Amerindian guides in the higher astral planes, and I on the physical plane had drilled deep into my soul and the soul of man (my brother). From this well gushed Spirit's healing waters of life. 12,000 symbolized the purification of 12,000 cells in 12 cerebral thrones in order to birth the I Am Self.

My most powerful dreams often take 1-2 years to manifest fully. A week ago, in my meditation on July 21, 2009, I was shown a vision of a deep well. I was at the top or opening of it, peering down into its dark depths. The sides of the well had only a tiny amount of debris and vegetation that in a few places extended slightly into the well shaft. After much contemplation, I realized that this vision represented the fulfillment of my prior dream. For the last two years, by way of my imagination faculty (on the mount), I had peered deeply (12,000 feet) into and transmuted my soul. Now, the way from my I Am Self through my purified third-eye/subconscious/thalamic doorway into my conscious/physical self was clear and ready to receive the pouring out of Spirit.

Two nights ago, on July 28, I awoke at 4 AM feeling inwardly accelerated and somewhat inflamed, particularly in my temples and the back of my head. After pondering the cause for this and not receiving an answer, I drifted back to sleep and dreamt that a large letter H had superimposed over my head with its horizontal cross bar at my third eye/thalamus. However, the horizontal line was serrated, such that the whole H image reminded me of two pieces of wood that had been spliced together. Upon awakening, I realized that this represented the splicing of my fourth-dimensional light body (the upper section of the H) with my third-dimensional physical body (the lower section of the H) via my soul/astral body at my third-eye/imagination faculty. This was like when Jesus was transfigured by his light body on the mount. This current focus on splicing or braiding may take 1-2 years to complete.

Visualization: Wrap yourself in a cocoon of light that encloses and protects your auric field and physical body. Imagine a large letter H superimposed over your head. Its horizontal pole with its serrated or saw-toothed edge is at the level of your third eye/thalamus/temples.

The top half of the H represents your I Am Self and light body that have overshadowed you and anchored into your third-eye/thalamus. The bottom half of the H, below the serrated horizontal pole, symbolizes your mortal self and physical body. See the top part of the H being spliced into, and bonded with, the bottom part of the H. This produces activation and acceleration of your forehead, temples and base of your brain, which quiets and clears when the energy flows freely.

Affirm: The Father and I are one. My spiritual body, astral body and physical body are one. My superconscious, subconscious and conscious are one. See it. Have faith in it. Be it.
