

InVest: 28 – Day 4: Learn to be Wise and Just

Watch, wait, listen, learn: On the 4th day of your courtroom drama, crystal clear light enlightens you with wise, just judgment. You become crystal clear in your mental, emotional, astral and physical bodies; four-squared and firmly founded after 4 days of waiting, watching listening, and now learning.

Love to learn. It's like being in the 12th grade in high school, having completed the 9th, 10th, and 11th years. It's like being a 4th-year senior in college. It takes 4 years in each school level and judgment chamber before things become clear, crystallized and well grounded. Each year, of course, your mortal mind torments and tempts you: You have arrived. You know it all. So get on with it and do something about it. Why keep plugging along when you already “get it”? Hey, “get it done.” And you smile and reply, “Shut up, you fool.” Hopefully, sooner rather than later!

Focus on the pyramid of light surrounding and encasing you, which is your total wisdom-judgment-justice chamber. To construct it, in the 1st step, you started with a single point of light that became the apex of the upward-pointing pyramid. This is where you pointed to and waited, as you aligned your will with God's will, the One Judge. Only when you were one with the One did you complete the 1st day or 1st step of judgment. Your primary judgment chamber was your thyroid gland, which sits atop your windpipe that conveys the will or breath of life from God into your whole respiratory system. You breathed in the will of God.

In the 2nd step, you drew 2 equal lines down from the one point, one line to either side of you, to form an upside down letter V. The left line represented the subconscious, the feminine, the soul of you. The right line symbolized the conscious, the male, the personality aspect of you. Within these 2 lines of the upside-down V, you carefully analyzed all the evidence given from both sides of you, from both lines of thought from your conscious and subconscious minds. You mentally analyzed and evaluated the good and the bad (evil), the positive and the negative, the truth and the lies. It took all your strength to watch, observe and gather information, to separate in your mind the wheat from the chaff, and to not rush to judgment. Time and again, you re-centered yourself in the judgment chamber of your 2 adrenal glands atop your 2 kidneys.

Triangulation comprises the 3rd step. On the 3rd day, you drew a line from the bottom of the 2 lines to form an equilateral triangle, which was the first triangular face of what in the 4th step becomes a 4-sided pyramid. The 3rd-day triangular face of love had its judgment chamber in your thymus gland. The equilateral triangle represents the linking of Father, Mother and Son/Daughter; and of conscious, subconscious and superconscious aspects of One Mind. You listened in your heart to the still small, wise voice of Father-Mother God, who loves you as His-Her creation of love. Love was your single focus and standard for your evolving judgments of yourself and others. You transmuted your lingering hatred, annoyance and judgmental attitudes.

In the 4th step now, quadruple your equilateral triangle. Using the first triangle as a template, make a total of 4 of them, with each one representing one of the 4 lower bodies: mental, emotional, astral and physical. Out of the 3rd step of love transmutation of water to wine comes the 4th step of crystal clarity, a 4-sided pyramid of crystal clear light that is diamond-like in its purity and crystalline solidity. Moreover, each of the four corners of the base of the pyramid form a square, such that your clarity is well-grounded and well-founded, anchored 4-square into the very earth elements of your physical form. Finally, note that the pyramid is the first solid shape you have created, whereas the first 3 steps were of a point, 2 lines, and a triangle.

Position yourself in your pancreas, the wisdom chamber of the 4th day, which is located in your abdomen. The pancreas is the endocrine analogue of the solar plexus chakra in your astral body. Solar means of the sun, with its crystal-clear light emanation. A plexus is a congregation or grouping of nerves, blood vessels or the cells of an organ or system. The pancreas secretes the hormones insulin and glucagon, which regulate the absorption and utilization of glucose (sugar) and other nutrients, which have been broken down and assimilated by the digestive system, especially the small intestine. These nutrients are the building blocks that the whole body uses to form and remodel itself and all of its organs.

Weigh today's testimony in your gut. Feel it in your bones. In the 3rd step, you felt things in your heart and weighed them in your thymus to determine if the evidence was loving or not. Shift now to your solar plexus and pancreas, where you evaluate whether or not each piece of evidence is truthful or a lie, a constructive or destructive factor, for good in building your temple of light or for evil in living life backwards (l-i-v-e or e-v-i-l). Ask yourself: If I incorporate this judgment, will it make me more or less orderly, more or less balanced, more or less wise and compassionate and just? Feel the answer in your gut. Feel it in your bones. Reject and shed the destructive in favor of the Christ constructive nutrients that crystallize Christ love within you.

What is crystal clear? That which is thoroughly analyzed, fully weighed, considered from each of 4 levels or angles or considerations. 2 plus 2 equals 4. 2 squared equals 4. Fuse the 2 sides or views of the feminine (soul-astral and emotional bodies) and the 2 sides of the masculine (mental and physical bodies) into a 4-square, crystal-clear understanding of what is wise and just and righteous. Learn the lesson. Study it. Feel it. Get it. Be it.

Picture a scale of justice with its 2 weighing stations or pans. When you weigh and judge something using this device, the scale swings back and forth many times, say at least 4 times, before reaching a balanced point in the center. This is the 4th step, when everything becomes clear, obvious, manifested and centered. This is what you look for. This is what you learn. You wait, watch, listen and learn the truth at the end of the 4th day.

Be crystal clear but not crystallized. Beware: This is just the 4th of 7 steps or days to good, righteous, compassionate judgment. You are only halfway there. Humbling, huh!? Once again, the temptation is to mistake this degree of clarity for having arrived. Like Jesus, following his baptism, Spirit takes you into the desert where Satan (your ego) tempts you. Will you become arrogant and crystallized in applying your 4th degree of judgment, mistaking it for the 7th step? Will you jump the gun and make a final judgment, and then self-righteously try to impose this judgment on others? Will you sit in judgment of others, or leave their judgment to God?

Be careful, be cautious, be wise as a serpent and gentle as a dove. Be 4-squared in a solid foundation of good judgment. Be crystal clear and look clearly to the next, 5th step. So be it.
