

144,000: 12 – Transmute 12,000 Cerebral Love Cells

As with each other power, our faculty of love has its own throne in the cerebrum, which is the body's central computer. Neuroscientific evidence is not conclusive, but it appears likely that this love throne is in the cerebrum's prefrontal lobes in Brodman's area 9. (In Fillmore Fulfilled on the left side of this blog's home page, click on the pictures of the Brodman areas in the cerebrum.)

The love throne contains approximately 12 billion cells, but only 12,000 of these have to be so transmuted with love that they transform and uplift the remaining billions of cells in the cerebral love center. Here is the miracle of love that changes water to wine during the wedding of our conscious and subconscious minds, and the wedding of this unit with our superconscious mind or I Am Self. Due to God's good grace, we only need to transmute a tiny, representative percentage of love cells in order to spread our mercy and compassion to all the guests at our mortal-immortal wedding.

We not only govern our heart from our love throne but we also regulate our liver and spleen from this same center. Since the liver is located primarily on the right (conscious) side of the body, it probably is monitored from area 9 in our left cerebral hemisphere. Our spleen, which is the principal organ of our lymphatic system, is positioned on the left or subconscious side of our body (see drawing in Fillmore Fulfilled), so it may be programmed and directed from area 9 in our right cerebral hemisphere.

Our liver is a large, single organ that is a veritable love transmutation factory that prepares nutrients and other compounds for entry into the blood stream as they are needed throughout the body. Like John the Beloved, who represents the positive, masculine, conscious aspect of our love power, our goal is to be a loving liver, one who puts his love into action in multitudinous outer ways.

Our spleen is smaller and is filled with lymphoid tissue, which also is found in the thymus gland and in lymph nodes and nodules scattered throughout the body, which are linked by lymphatic vessels. All of these structures comprise the lymphatic system, whose lymphocytes protect and make us immune to bacteria, viruses, fungi and cancer cells. The lymphatic system also removes old red blood cells and toxic items from the circulation. The multiple Marys in Jesus life portray varying degrees of subconscious, passive, feminine love power, which protects and purifies our soul.

Visualization: White is the color of love. Surround yourself in a large white tube, conduit or culvert whose walls are composed of thick, protective marble. The tube surrounds your physical body and auric field, and goes up a foot or two above your head.

Look up and see Sol-O-Man/Mary, who is Sananda-Jesus' twin soul, descending from the heavens. She represents the soul of man, whom she loves as a mother. See her dressed in a white gown or robe. She lowers herself until the hem of her robe connects to the upper rim of the tube around you. You and Mary are one with Mother God. Divine mother love circulates through your spleen and the rest of your lymphatic system, which transmutes your body and soul.

Filled to overflowing with feminine love power, visualize before you someone whom you have not loved in the depths of your soul. Love this person as a mother loves her beloved child. Know in your heart that love now cleans this individual's spleen. See the corresponding healing of this precious one's soul. As you see and feel it, so must it be.
